

Senator Norris Turns Spot-Light On Secret Agreement Between Japs And Allies In Argument Against Treaty

WERE TO CARVE UP CHINA

Produces Copies Of Diplomatic Correspondence To Prove 'Cats Paw' Methods Were Used to Gain Selfish Ends

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 15.—A charge that Japan secretly secured pledges from Great Britain, France, Italy and Russia early in 1917, that in the peace settlement Shantung peninsula should, for certain considerations, be turned over to the Tokyo government, was made in the senate today by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, who produced what he declared to be copies of diplomatic correspondence embodying the promises of Great Britain and France. These pledges, the Nebraska senator declared, fully explained the pressure which resulted in Shantung's transfer to Japan under the Versailles treaty, whose ratification by the senate, he asserted, would write "the blackest page in the nation's history." Great Britain's influence in the matter, he charged, was secured by Japan's support of British claims to Pacific Islands south of the equator, while France's aid was purchased by a promise of the Tokyo government to help draw China in to the war so that German ships in Chinese harbors would be available for carrying troops and provisions to France. "On the 26th day of March, 1916," said Senator Norris, "the Japanese minister of foreign affairs at Tokyo, approached the British ambassador, located at that place, with a view of bringing about an agreement with the British government. The British minister cabled to his government at London, and after receiving instructions from his government, wrote the Japanese government as follows: "British Embassy, Tokyo, February 10, 1917. "My Dear Excellency: With reference to the subject of our conversation settlement treat in the same spirit Great Britain's claims to the German Islands south of the equator." "On the 21st day of February, 1917, the Japanese government replied to this communication of the British government as follows: "The Japanese government is deeply appreciative of the friendly spirit in which your government has given assurance and happy to note it as fresh proof of the close ties that unite the two allied powers. I take pleasure in stating that the Japanese government on its part is fully prepared to support in the same spirit the claims which may be put forward at the peace conference in regard to the German possessions in the islands south of the equator." "While the Japanese government was waiting for a reply from the British government, it proceeded also to negotiate with the other allied governments. Its message to the French ambassador at Tokyo, was signed by the Japanese foreign minister and was as follows: "The Imperial Japanese government proposes to demand from Germany at the time of the peace negotiations (Continued on Page Eight)

PRESIDENT MAY TOUR COUNTRY WHILE SENATE DEBATES TREATY

JOHNSON RESOLUTION ASKS WILSON TO SUBMIT DRAFTS OF ALL LEAGUE PROPOSALS

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 15.—In testimony that the senate foreign relations committee might not arrange for early conference with President Wilson for discussion of the peace treaty and the League of Nations covenant, led to the expectation today that Mr. Wilson might begin his tour of the country sooner than he had planned. Fixing of the itinerary for the "boxing around the circle" was understood to have been delayed to await completion of the committee's program in order that there might be no conflict. The committee met again today and laying aside temporarily the question of asking for more information, began a reading of the official text of the treaty submitted by the president. Among administration senators, the expression prevailed that the president and the committee undoubtedly would be brought together to discuss some features of the treaty. It was expected, however, that these meetings would be at the White House, rather than at the Capitol. The foreign relations committee later adopted a resolution requesting the president, if not incompatible, with the public interest, to furnish the committee virtually all documents considered by the American peace commissioners in their work on the treaty with Germany. It was said that the resolution, of which Senator Johnson, a Republican of California, was author, was adopted by virtually unanimous vote and that action by the senate was not considered. It requests the president to submit drafts of all proposals for a League of Nations as well as stenographic transcripts of formal proceedings at the peace conference.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 15.—Hours of the peace treaty fight were expected to result in further committee action and several hours of debate in the senate chamber today. The foreign relations committee, which yesterday reported three resolutions asking the president for information about the Versailles negotiations, had before it today a proposal by Senator Johnson, Republican, California, to request the president to submit drafts of all proposals for a League of Nations as well as stenographic transcripts of formal proceedings at the peace conference.

SLIM SILHOUETTE IS STILL MODISH

This new summer frock proves that the slim silhouette is still the modish. The material is our old friend cotton voile, but it is prettily disguised by ruffled crossbars. The blouse is bright blue and the skirt is white. Heavy head embroidery trims the pockets and cuffs.

1-3 MILLION OVER THERE

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 15.—American overseas forces aggregated 2,172,000 officers and men for July 8, according to an official announcement today. On the same date 100,000 troops were at sea enroute to the United States and 259,000 were in this country.

ROME, Monday, July 14.—(By the Associated Press)—The government of Premier Nitti, which took office several weeks ago, received a vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies. The vote passed by 257 to 111.

"Drys" In Full Control Turn Back The "Wets"

WASHINGTON, July 15.—With indications that there would be no up in the bitter fight which several times yesterday reached such a stage that proceedings were conducted in confusion and disorder, resumption of the prohibition enforcement measure debate was expected to be the only business in the house today. Opponents of prohibition, assisted in some instances by members of the "dry" forces, who have expressed belief that some features of legislation proposed are too drastic, were expected to continue their fight for moderation. Every attempt so far to have the measure as reported from committee amended has met with defeat except in two instances, which had no important bearing. Amendments voted down yesterday included: (1) permitting the sale of 2 1/2 percent beer, another leaving to the courts instead of congress to decide what constitutes an intoxicating beverage, and still another permitting the manufacture of light wines, which was designed to protect California grape growers. Numerous amendments were ruled out under points of order, and a straight out motion to repeal the war time act was defeated overwhelmingly.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Prohibition forces took full control in the house Monday, refused to permit a vote on a straight out motion to repeal the war time act, defeated overwhelmingly an amendment providing for the sale of two and three-quarter percent beer and stood solidly against all attempts on the general enforcement measure. Just as one "liberal" amendment was offered by opponents of prohibition, it was voted down without ceremony, always by a triple vote, for the minority, fighting every inch of ground, demanded a division after the ayes and nays were called, and then asked for tellers. Before the house got through with the first section of the three part bill there was more disorder on the floor than at any time this session.

The disturbance arose first during an attempt by Representative Blanton, Democrat, Texas, to speak a second time against the amendment which would have given a jury the right to define intoxicants, and was increased during an address by Representative Gallatin, Democrat, Massachusetts, who declared members voting dry should print in the Congressional Record exactly how much liquor they had stored in their homes and offices.

Battle On Definition The real battle of the day, however, was over the amendment to define an intoxicant as a beverage containing more than two and three-quarter percent alcohol, instead of more than one-half of one percent as written in the bill. Representative Dyer, Republican, Missouri, the author of the amendment, did not ask for this definition in the constitutional prohibition amendment, but simply the war-time law. In pleading for its adoption Mr. Dyer declared it was what President Wilson had recommended to congress, and would permit, during that remaining period of war-time prohibition, the sale of light wines and beer, and might delay the issuance of a proclamation by the president which would restore the sale of "hard" liquors.

There was a round of speech-making on this motion, an hour of it, with the drier assailing it as an entering wedge and the wets asserting that it would permit the very thing the president, as commander-in-chief of the army, had said was best for the country for the next six months. Gavel Gets Much Use After 2 1/4 percent beer had been bowled over by a repeal vote of 351 to 50—and this was about the relative division on all amendments—the prohibitionists went after another amendment by Representative Tamm, Democrat, of Missouri, which would have stricken out all definition of intoxicants, killing the proposal 125 to 83. There was the utmost confusion at times, despite vigorous wharves with the gavel, and some of the prohibition leaders applauded every move in their favor. The galleries filled largely with women and officers of anti-liquor organizations, broke into applause when the house passed the amendment of two and three-quarter percent beer. Motions Thrown Out When it seemed the majority was weary of voting down every proposal by the other side, points of order were raised and some motions designed to make the law less drastic were picked up by the map of the neck, as members expressed it, and bodily thrown out. This happened to an amendment by Representative Lea, Democrat, California, in the interest of grape growers, who stood to lose $12,000,000 this year, he said. It provided for the manufacture of wine containing eleven percent alcohol by weight. A point of order against it was sustained by the chair. There were many references to President Wilson during the debate, and several speakers read that section of his message recommending repeal.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—In view of the statement by President Wilson that the railroads would be returned to their owners at the end of this year, Chairman Enoch C. Ladd of the house interstate commerce committee today said that it would be useless to consider plans for a five year extension of government control. "Mindful of the sentiment throughout the country on the question of government ownership," the chairman added, "I think we should not spend much time on that. There are many problems to be worked out in the bill for the regulation of the carriers which we are taking up today, and in light of the president's declaration to congress there is nothing to be gained by a discussion of a situation which will not exist, as we take it, for the roads will be turned back at the time the president indicated."

2 3-4 BEER LOST IN GOVERNMENT CASE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 15.—The government won its first point today in its fight against the sale of beer containing 2 3-4 percent alcohol, when Judge W. H. S. Thomson in United States district court, overruled demurrers of officers and directors of the Pittsburgh and Independent Brewing Companies to charges of violation of the war time prohibition law. Each of the defendants, 19 in all, was held in $1,000 bail for the November term of court.

SEVEN KILLED WHEN SWEEPER BITS MINE

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 15.—One officer and six enlisted men were killed in the destruction of the American mine sweeper Richard H. Buckley by the explosion of a mine in the North Sea, July 12. Two other officers were injured. The dead are: Commander Frank A. King, Hospital Engineer, and John T. Mallon, seaman, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Antonio Persico, cook, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Homer Phillips, seaman, reserve force, 120 Lehigh avenue, Washington; Court House, Ohio; George Paul Reah, fireman, reserve force, Warman, Minn.; George M. Sawyer, fireman, reserve force, Knob Lick, Ky. The officers injured are Lieutenants Frederick G. Keyes and Walter T. Sharon, but the dispatches to the navy department today said their injuries were not serious. Two officers and 15 enlisted men were rescued. The Buckley was engaged with other mine sweepers in removing the North Sea mine barrage, when a mine became entangled in the sweeping cable. Before the cable could be reeled out again the mine exploded directly under the ship's stern. The trawler was shattered by the terrible impact and sank in six minutes before other vessels of the fleet could reach her. Commander King remained on the bridge directing the efforts to save the crew and went down with his ship. The remainder of the dead either were killed by the explosion or trapped below decks when the vessel sank.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Miss Wise—I am sixteen years old and have a good home and many friends. But I am puzzled.

When a boy likes me as well as he does any other girl, but no better, I like him very much. But when he begins to show a preference for me I lose my liking for him for no reason whatever.

Why am I like this? Several boys have proposed to me and some have even bought rings, although I have never acted in any except a friendly way to them. What makes them want to marry me when I am so young?

There is a boy whose friendship I value very much and who likes me better than any other girl. I don't want him to get like the other boys and so how can I keep him just as a friend?

PUZZLED.
It is not strange that you want that which you are not sure you can have; it is human nature to feel that way. Do not worry about your fickleness because as you grow older your tastes will take definite form and you will learn to care for one man a great deal more than all others.

Have a good time now, but never compromise yourself by going with young men unworthy of you. You are building your future now by your habits and the friends you choose. Remember you feel the importance of answering your love and affection for the man you will, sometime marry.

To keep the friendship of the young man you enjoy so much now, you will have to regard him as a friend only and not permit him to drift into the attitude of love. Let him go with the different girls and try not to feel or show jealousy.

Dear Miss Wise—Will you please tell me how to make love?

WAITING.
Unless love is expressed naturally and as the feeling grows it is artificial and lacks sincerity. Follow the dictates of your heart. Sometimes, however, it is well to restrain love if it is too violent. The loved one dies quickly if smothered with it.

Dear Dolly Wise—Is it proper for girls of fifteen and sixteen years of age to attend public dances?

BETTER.
No girls of fifteen and sixteen are too young to attend public dances.

My Dear Dolly—I have a brother who is in the 28th Engineers stationed somewhere in France, and I would like to know when they will sail for the U. S. A.

BIDDY.
I have no information whatever on the 28th Engineers. As soon as possible, I will answer your questions in these columns.

"MARRY"—The ship you asked about arrived Saturday.

Dear Miss Wise—I am a girl fifteen years of age. Some time ago I received some pink roses as a birthday present from a boy friend of my own age. As I know when his birthday is, would it be proper to send him a gift? If so, what shall I send? Or do you think it would be better to send him a card? After I have known a boy of my age for three or four months, I do not wish him to call me "Miss". How shall I tell him so?

THANKFUL, CONSTANT HEADELL.
I would send the boy a card if I were you. He will appreciate the fact that you remember the occasion. If you decide to give him a present, make it something small—a book for instance. I don't blame you for wanting the boy to drop the formality. At your age it would be all right if you called him by his first name. Then he would probably follow your example. When you are older wait for the man to ask permission to call you by your first name.

Dear Miss Wise—My son, who is only twenty years old now, enlisted when the United States went into the war. At that time he was going with a young girl whom his father and I did not like. She is very silly and common. Secretly my son married her and did not tell us anything about it until his return from France. He is working now, but making a small salary to live on. Since he is not of age, I don't think his father and I should have the marriage annulled. You can see what kind of a family he is, because although she is only seventeen they favor the marriage. What can we do?

MOTHER.
Moral law should make it impossible for you to have the marriage annulled. Your son has married the girl lawfully, perhaps, but he has married her, nevertheless. Now you and his father should help him in every way to play the man. Legality and the sense of responsibility should be expected of him. The girl is very young and undeveloped. With your help and love she can develop into a very beautiful woman. Help the young people in every way you can.

Dear Miss Wise—I am keeping company with two young men. One has an automobile and has a richer father than the other. My whole family likes him the best and thinks I am crazy to prefer the other. I can tell that both are serious about their intentions and for some time I have been waiting off proposals. I love the other young man with all my heart. We have known each other for two years and in that time I have cared for no one else. Do you think I would make a mistake to marry the man I love although my family dislikes my choice?

DOLORETH.
Marry the man you love regardless of what your family thinks. In two years you have had time to test your love. Since it has lasted so long you have reason to think that it will prove true. Let your age influence your choice. If you are in your teens it would be unwise to consider marriage with an older young man. Your parents do not have the same opportunity to see the young man's good qualities that you do. He shows himself to you. They can see the automobile and the riches of the other young man's father. You must live with your husband, not they, and so choose the man you love.

PARK WILL HAVE BENCHES

A way has been found to put the benches of the parks of the city in shape, and add a few to their number. The benches of the parks, especially the two benches of York Park, are in bad shape, and so rusty that they leave streaks of rust on the clothes of those who use them, while the wooden benches are sadly in need of repair.

No funds seemed to be available for such work at this time and the mayor referred Henry Rios to the Bureau of Community Service to see if they could arrange for putting their show on York Park. The show agreed to pay $50 for the grounds. The show being a good clean one, the Bureau promptly agreed, stipulating however, that neither the ground among the trees not that around the children's play grounds should be used. The money will be used to paint and repair the benches in York and Tracy Parks.

Owls Keeping Busy

trying to bring in the most, they are not reporting their applications at the first meetings of the month. State Organizer Ben Voorbels urged the members to lead every effort to bring to double the membership.

tion the surrender of the territorial rights and special interests Germany possessed before the war in Shantung and the islands north of the equator in the Pacific ocean.

"The Imperial Japanese government confidently hopes the government of the French Republic, realizing the legitimacy of these demands, will give assurance that, her case being proved, Japan may count upon its full support in this question.

"It goes without saying that reparation for damages caused to the life and property of the Japanese people by the unjustifiable attacks of the enemy, as well as other conditions of peace of a character common to all the belligerent powers, are entirely outside the consideration of the present question."

"A few days later the French ambassador replied to the Japanese foreign office as follows:

"The government of the French Republic is disposed to give the Japanese government its aid in regulating at the time of the peace negotiations questions vital to Japan concerning Shantung and the German islands in the Pacific north of the equator. It also agrees to support the demands of the Imperial Japanese government for the surrender of the rights Germany possessed before the war in this Chinese province and these islands.

"M. Briand demands on the other hand, that Japan give its support to obtain from China the breaking of its diplomatic relations with Germany, and that it give this act desirable significance. The consequences of this in China should be the following:

"First, handing passports to the German diplomatic agents and consuls.

"Second, the obligation of all under German jurisdiction to leave Chinese territory.

"Third, the internment of German ships in Chinese ports, and the ultimate requisition of these ships in order to place them at the disposition of the allies, following the example of Italy and Portugal. According to the information of the French government, there are 15 German ships in Chinese ports totalling about 40,000 tons.

"Fourth, requisition of German commercial houses established in China, forfeiting the right of Germany in the concessions she possesses in certain parts of China."

"Upon receipt of this communication, the foreign minister of Japan, on behalf of Japan, promised compliance with the request of the French government contained in this letter. Similar negotiations were entered into with similar results, with Italy, although the negotiations with Italy took place in Rome and not in Tokio. Similar agreement also was made with Russia, and it must be remembered that at that time, Russia was still in the war and it was anticipated that at the close of the war she would have a place at the peace table.

"It thus clearly disclosed that while three leading governments of the world were inducing China to get into the war in order that they might secure assistance and particularly that they might be able to get possession of the German ships interned in China's harbors, they were secretly plotting among themselves as to her destruction as soon as she had complied with their wishes and the war was over. In all the annals of history, I can not believe there is recorded an instance of a more disgraceful and dishonorable agreement to carve up the territory, not of an enemy, but of an allied friend.

"And if we approve this wicked decree, in its defense to say that we were the only member of the court that was not bribed? If we ratify this treaty as it stands, we approve not only the judgment, but the reprehensible method by which it was brought about. If this treaty as it stands, comes operative, and later the thirty millions of Chinese in Shantung should rebel against the rule of the Japanese, and then if the balance of China should go to the assistance of their own brethren in attempting to overthrow the unlawful and cruel rule of a foreign government, then under Section 10, of the League of Nations, as it now stands, it would be our duty to contribute American lives and American blood of the battle field to assist Japan to retain her power.

"This treaty should go back, and I believe if the American people could have an opportunity to see all the vice that it contains, they were able to express their patriotic sentiments, it would go back practically by a unanimous vote. When the honest citizens of Great Britain, France and Italy, realize the injustice that it contains, they will unite with us in demanding that it be rejected."

peal of the war-time law so far as it related to the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer.

In lifting his voice for two and three-quarters percent beer, Representative Bailey, Democrat, of Illinois, declared these were uncertain times, that people were in a peculiar frame of mind, and that poverty was raising more misery than alcohol. He brought a volley of applause from the wets when he expressed the hope that the president would veto the enforcement bill because of its drastic provisions.

Reber Makes Ties

The feeling between the factions got so bitter at times that the usual courtesy of permitting a member to revise and extend his remarks was denied. Prohibition members objected when Representative Reber, Republican, Pennsylvania, who had made a strong plea for beer, wanted to add something he was deprived of saying in his limited allotment of time. Mr. Reber had intimated in his speech that some members were not altogether truthful as to their drinking habits, declaring that so far as 2-3-4 percent beer was concerned, he had taken two drinks of it hand running and it had no more effect than so much water. He added that he never drank a gallon of beer in his life and simply took this much the other day to see if it would make him drunk.

RELEASED ON BAIL

LONGVIEW, TEXAS, July 1.—In connection with Mack and White, arrested last Friday in white men arrested today charged with assault with intent to murder, were released on $1,000 bail.

My Baby's First Summer

WHEN the days and the nights began to be hot and sultry, my baby began to droop. He lost a little weight and he was fretful at night—he who had always slept so well.

I thought a baby properly cared for should be as well and as happy in summer as in winter, so I asked my doctor.

"Why, of course," he said, "We'll give him Nestlé's Milk Food."

So now I know I don't have to be afraid of hot weather. With plenty of cool baths and light enough clothing, and with Nestlé's digesting easily in that little stomach, my baby is happy and on to health and strength.

Nestlé's is just pure milk in powder form, to which has been added cereal and sugar. You only add water to it and boil.

I know the Nestlé Company will be glad to send you, free, enough Nestlé's Food for twelve feedings, and a very good Mother's Book, too, to take care of babies, if you will cut and send the coupon to them. They want to take away your fear of hot weather, as they did mine.

Wife Makes Counter-Charges

After denying the charges contained in the petition of her husband, Darius Burton, for a divorce, Susie Burton, in her cross petition, filed in common pleas court today through Attorney B. F. Kimble, charges that Burton in disregard of his marital duties, has habitually called her vile and indecent names, accused her of unchastity, threatened to do her bodily harm, until she has been compelled to look herself in a room to prevent him from carrying out his threats. She further alleges that Burton associates with indolent and immoral people and that he, knowing it to be false, has held her up to humiliation and shame and injured her reputation by alleging in his petition that she had been guilty of immoral conduct.

The wife asks that she be given a divorce and custody of their 11-year-old daughter. In addition to an allowance as temporary alimony pending the hearing of the case, a temporary injunction was issued restraining Burton from molesting his wife and joining him from disposing of $100 in Liberty bonds or the furniture in their home at 1505 Robinson avenue.

"Home, Home, Home, Sweet Home! Be It Ever So Humble There's No Place Like Home"

What John Howard Payne wrote in his immortal song three-quarters of a century ago, is equally as true now, as at that time when the famous author was homeless. The following poem written by C. H. Pratt of Bear Creek, Scioto county, so aptly describes Payne's condition that the committee takes pleasure in giving it publicity, as a part of the advertising of the Board of Trade and commends it to the reader, especially the reader without a home. It will bear reading:

He Never Had a Home

In many lands a stranger saw,
Gay multitudes of foreign forms;
Where fancy's portrait did draw,
Resemblance true of calms and storms;
From parlor halls he heard the strain
Of flowing music sweetly come;
The song was "Home Sweet Home's" refrain
And yet he had not then a home.

The bard who wrote was homeless then,
As Seine of Thames in city streets;
Unknown to fame, unpraised by men,
He saw the ocean's busy fleets;
Unknown he mingled with the throng,
Where beauty, wealth and fashion come;
With others did their joy prolong
John Howard Payne had not a home.

Where Tunis over Carthage rears
On Africa's soil its domes and spires;
He saw the slave in bitter tears,
A prey of toil and vain desires;
Our Consul then from Freedom's land,
He saw the roaming stranger's come;
And yet within that foreign land,
The poet never had a home.

He rests from labor with the dead
A home, the homeless poet found;
No more Sahara's does he tread;
Or hear the music's lovely sound;
Our Country's Capital became
The home of merit's sacred dust;
And "Home Sweet Home" will blend his name,
With sacred anthems of the Just.

Seldom if ever has there been a melody that appealed more deeply to the hearts of men the whole world over than "Home Sweet Home." Go where you will, do what you may, there is no place or condition but the strains of that song will quicken the heart and gladden the eye. Nothing appeals to the tender chords of nature more quickly or more loudly than thoughts of home. Then why not have your own? Houses are not necessarily homes and yet, Portsmouth wants many of the former, that they may become the latter. It wants every citizen and resident to own a house in this, the so beautifully described by a well known newspaper man:

PORTSMOUTH, OHIO, is blessed of the Gods, because it is set amid such beautiful scenery, and it is also the favorite of fortune in many other ways.

Here the mountains are higher and more perfect in form. In Spring they take on a greener green, in Fall they show a more varied and dazzling kaleidoscope of hue and color, and with each fall of beam and shadow they unfold some new and unexpected charm. Nowhere on earth is the curve of the stream as graceful as that of the Ohio here, and the like of its witching shimmer of golden and silvery gleam is to be seen nowhere else short of Paradise.

Portsmouth, as has often been stated, is geographically the proverbial gateway to the Ohio and Scioto valleys. Architecturally she is the keystone in the arch of resourceful sections, commercially the center of radiation for the useful articles of life, the ornate things of esthetic tastes and the essential attributes of health-giving principle and rugged prosperity.

Her location on the banks of the beautiful Ohio with palatial steamers passing at frequent intervals day and night, her manufacturing plants stretching from "The Big to the Little Scioto", her steam and electric railways traversing the Ohio and Scioto Valleys, her miles of well paved and shaded streets, her many parks, her miles of modern residences makes her at once picturesque! Peerless and Pivotal!

There is no better city in which to live; rear a family, or engage in business as civic pride is much in evidence here, the streets being laid out on broad and generous lines. As is well known Portsmouth's success is largely due to the exceptionally large number of fine artisans who own their homes and are therefore intimately identified with the best interests of the city. There is every reason why more of the workmen should also own their homes and they can do so.

The Board of Trade is composed of merchants, manufacturers and others and as has been stated, has no scheme on hand, money to loan or nothing to sell. It simply is interested in seeing the city grow and in assisting those who now have no home to procure one. It has no lots to sell, or in fact anything, and it costs absolutely nothing to call at the office and consult with the secretary, W. S. Harris. There is no obligation on the part of anybody.

As a Matter of Fact the Board does not care just WHERE you build, but wishes that you build and if it can be of any service to you in getting started, it will gladly do so and without charge of any kind. The Board has pride in Portsmouth; it wants to see the city expand; it wants houses for the many newcomers who will be drawn here by the enlargement of the Whitaker-Glessner mills, and the Norfolk and Western Terminals. All know there is a scarcity of houses and it is this condition that the Board is seeking to improve.

One Thousand Houses Are Wanted!

While building material has advanced there is no prospect of any decline either in material, or labor; as a matter of fact prices may go higher, consequently it is up to you to do your part by building. There never was, or ever will be a better chance to build than now. Portsmouth with all her material advantages including a nine foot stage in the Ohio river, soon a reality, is bound to expand.

Note what the Board of Trade committee recommended in its report to council, and note also how council without hesitation approved and accepted the recommendations. Council instructed the city solicitor to bring in the necessary legislation looking to the carrying out of all the plans proposed. Namely to open up sections adjacent to the city that low priced lots may be procured. It goes without saying that a large bond issue will be provided in order that this proposed new section of the city have sewers, sidewalks, paved streets, light and water. Street car service is sure to follow once the above improvements have been arranged for.

All know that there is keen enjoyment and pleasure in living in one's own home and persons who have never experienced that pleasure have missed much. A home owner is always far more contented and satisfied, and many a householder would not now part with his property even at a good advance over cost. To own one's home should be the aim of the man of every family especially, and others not bound by family ties would do well to look to the future and secure a home now. Houses may always be sold or rented should an owner wish to do one or the other with what he has.

Be a Booster, help the city that helps you, be loyal to Portsmouth, become a property owner. There is no better investment than

Portsmouth Real Estate

All manner of building material may now be had, where it could not a few months ago. Get in line. Let's Go!

ELECTRIC RAILWAYS MUST HAVE RELIEF, SAYS HIGH OFFICIAL

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Under existing conditions and with revenue they are now receiving, the electric railways cannot continue to perform the functions expected of them, John H. Harbo, president of the American Electric Association, today told the federal electric railways commission. The commission was appointed by President Wilson to investigate the situation confronting local transportation interests throughout the country.

"It is no longer a question of what return shall be allowed to the owners of the railways," Mr. Harbo said. "It is a question as to what service, if any, shall be rendered to the public."

Asserting it was not the purpose of the railways' representatives to "make a case" before the commission, Mr. Harbo said they appeared to give the facts in the situation in the hope a solution might be found satisfactory to the public, employees and owners alike, interested as they all were in maintaining good service at reasonable cost.

Outstanding phases of the situation demanding attention, he continued, are the "absolutely unworkable and unsatisfactory" basis upon which the relations between the public and the electric railways have rested since the inauguration of the enterprise and placing of many additional burdens upon companies by the government as war exigencies without any sort of relief.

TWO MEN ARE HELD FOLLOWING THE DISAPPEARANCE OF WHISKEY

L. J. "Slim" Coffman and Philip "Dutch" Herder, a pair of former hangers-on, were before Mayor Kaps today in police court this morning in connection with the theft of a "dram" containing 45 quarts of "42" whiskey, which was stolen from the stable of Andy Wolfe, on Eleventh street, some time during Sunday night.

The pair were arrested last night on complaint of John McMahon, proprietor of a soft drink stand, in the Heller building on Gallia street, First East, owner of the "wet goods" after he and several others had trapped Coffman into selling them a quart of the whiskey.

The defendants on being arraigned pleaded not guilty and after hearing the evidence in the case continued for further investigation.

McMahon and Paul Egan told the court that Coffman told them of a job he had played on Andy Wolfe by stealing his whiskey, taking his private stock, instead of booze intended for the Bartenders' Union, which was stored in the same place. Heller disclaimed all knowledge concerning the disappearance of the whiskey, while Coffman claimed that he met two strange men on the street with 15 quarts of liquor Sunday night and that they gave him 2 quarts for trying to find a place for those to store it.

The accused men were held in default of $200 bond each, pending a further investigation.

LOUISVILLE, KY., July 15.—Normal telephone service was had in Louisville today for the first time since 400 employees of the Cumberland and Home Telephone companies struck two weeks ago for higher wages. The two companies, which operate the only telephone system in the city, are said to have accepted enough operators and repairmen to resume day service. Company officials look for an early end of the strike.

Despite the fact that Pitcher "Boss" Spencer, star pitcher for the Selbys, laid the Solvays to one June bugle at the Steel Plant street yards, last evening, his team lost by the count of 5 to 0, due entirely to the work of Mr. Spencer who was as wild as a March hare and who had no one to blame for the defeat but himself. "Boss" is big of heart and big of brain and is not offering any alibi and gladly taking all the blame on his own shoulders. Usually as steady as a town clock, he slipped a cog in the second frame and stripped all the pairs in the fifth when the Solvays outed four unanswerable runs.

On the other hand, Manager "Doc" Baughman who pitched for the winners was almost as steady as a rock as Mr. Spencer and ten times as steady. He walked but one man and immediately saw to it that the recipient of free transportation did not go beyond first base. Baughman pitched an almost perfect game and turned in his fourth victory of the season, having the distinction of being the only defeated leader of the Industrial League. The victory of the Solvays placed that team at the head of the league and they are confident they will maintain their advantage at least this week, for they are to play a double header Saturday afternoon with the tail-enders, N. & W. and Drew teams.

The game last night was a well-played struggle, the Solvays making one misplay which cost nothing. The Selbys erred twice. Spencer dropped a looping fly and Riddleberger muffed a throw ball. These errors cost the Selbys a run each.

The crowd was of huge proportions, it being estimated that fully 1750 people were out. Overanxiety cost the Selbys a run in the opening inning, due to Spencer being caught on the delayed steal. He was on first with one out, due to his clipping single. Manager Brennan stepped to the plate and flashed the hit and run sign. Spencer was baffled by Baughman and caught off the initial sack and muffed at second by a perfect throw from Brennan. Manager Brennan followed with a double to left that bounced through Meigs and on which Spencer could have tallied. After this, Baughman put on the brakes and but three more men saw first and but one got as far as third. The Solvays won the game in the second when they scored a run without the aid of a single. Benton walked and was sacrificed to second by Potts. Spencer dropped Frizzell's pop-up. Benton taking third after the misplay. On the double steal, Riddleberger handled Riddleberger's pop badly. Benton coming home. The bars were let down for the Solvays in the fifth. Spencer walked Bob Meyers and James and Ward was hit on the south eastern part of his hemisphere. Tullin walked, forcing in Meyers. Baughman fed to Spencer, a fine catch. Cooper then made the only hit recorded against Spencer, a single to left, coming in James and Ward, while Valodis came home when Riddleberger dropped Riddleberger's good pop on Benton's collar. Riddleberger then made a great catch of Rollins.

After duplicating Cooper's masterful catch of Riddleberger's drive. These two catches, together with Stewart's miffing Baughman's fly, were the features, not overlooking some minor plays in the outfield. The scores:

Unfurled Flag In Honor Of Excelsiors Victories

John E. Williams, president of The Excelsior Shoe Co., is mighty proud of the ball team that represents his plant in the Industrial League and to show his pride in the ball tossers he went out yesterday and bought a huge flag which he flung to the breeze from the top of a flagstaff on the roof of the shoe plant, in honor of the players and a tribute to their splendid work on the diamond.

Seldom has Mr. Williams been happier than he was last Saturday when his team went out and capped two games by beating the two leaders, the Solvays and Steel Plant and which enabled them to climb into a tie for first place.

Incidentally, Mr. Williams handed out a five-dollar bill immediately after the double victory which he turned over to the players letting them go down town and drink all the sodas and Coca-colas they possibly could.

"Babe" Adams Trying Comeback

Charles B. ("Babe") Adams, hero of the 1909 world series, will try to come back with the Pittsburgh Pirates this year. Adams is thirty-five years old and a real veteran as pitchers go.

It was in 1916 that Adams took the toehog with the Pirates and was labeled as through by the scribes. His pitching for that year was more or less of a joke, for he won but two games and succeeded in losing nine more before Barney Dreibus made up his mind to let his veteran star go.

In 1917 Adams drifted into the Western League, signed up with Jack Holland at Hutchinson and staged a comeback that surprised everybody. He won 20 games of ball for the Hutchinson team and lost 13, and he was rated as one of the hardest working pitchers in the league, which has always been noted as a league that harbors many a hard-hitting son-of-a-gun and many a crafty old timer who is on his way back.

Adams' record with the Hutchinson club won him a trial with John Gansel at Kansas City last season and during the abbreviated pennant race in which the Blues won the pennant. Adams captured 14 games of ball and lost but three for the Kansas City club.

This feat won him his chance to try a real comeback with the Pirates this year and his boosters are predicting that he will make good.

Adams' embolism on his name in baseball's hall of fame back in 1909 when he played the role of hero of the world's series between Pittsburgh and Detroit. He pitched the first game for the Pirates against George Mullin and won it by a count of 4-1. Then, after Bill Donovan had beaten Willis and Mullin had trimmed Lafferty, while Maddox sandwiched a victory over Summers to between two games, Adams came back to the mound with the count of two all and Pittsburgh made eight runs for him, while he held Detroit to four. Mullin came back in the sixth game for Detroit and won it, and Adams won his third game and the series when he shut out the Tigers 5 to 0 in the final contest.

J. Letter Atcheson, a pitcher and outfielder of Maryland Agricultural college, has been signed by the Brooklyn Dodgers.

A. S. Smith, the Brooklyn pitcher who recently returned from service overseas, appears to be in championship form.

E. J. Pfeffer of Brooklyn and G. A. Canney of the Giants are having a great race for leading pitcher in the National League.

Leslie Nunamaker was awarded $4,500 for injuries received in an automobile accident last December. The St. Louis catcher sued for $15,000.

Although little is said about the holding of A. A. Terry and G. W. Cuthshaw of the Pittsburgh Nationals, they are putting up a splendid defensive game around second base.

These Senators are not out of this American Association race. They've been going in poor luck for some time but a little cheering would help them along mightily. Why not get out to Nell Park.

Bob Gilne's racing auto, that he broke up when he left the Columbus track early in the race of June 16, is being rebuilt at Joliet, Ill., and he soon will be driving it.

The war's exigencies didn't make any inroads on the athletic finances of Notre Dame University, according to a recent announcement by Athletic Director Knute K. Rockne. The Notre Dame Athletic Association reported that while football returns were not up to the standard and the increased cost of paraphernalia militated against any profits from sports, nevertheless there was no loss to the university's athletics.

Walter Trumbull and Charles Coolidge will be assistants to Robert Fisher in coaching the Harvard football team this fall. Trumbull was acting captain and tackle against Yale in 1914 and Coolidge was left end last year's team.

Doyle Out With Injury

NEW YORK, July 15—Larry Doyle, Giant second baseman, is suffering from a torn muscle in his hip, according to his physician. He probably will be out of the game most of this week, it was said.

O. S. U. Man Is Coach

COLUMBUS, O., July 15—Leon McCarty, one of Ohio State's football stars in 1913, has been head coach of the University of Kansas squad according to announcement received here. McCarty is a graduate of the class of 1910, at the Ohio State University.

Since 1917 McCarty has coached the Freeman football team at Kansas and handled the baseball team, his team winning the Missouri Valley conference title this spring.

Thorpe May Be Coach

Jim Thorpe, hailed as the world's greatest athlete a few years ago and now an outfielder on George Stallings' Braves, is considered as the next football coach of Boston College. Overtures have been made to Thorpe to fill the place once held by Charley Brickley.

Giants VS White Sox Says Mack

CHICAGO, July 15—"The White Sox will win the pennant in the American League," said Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics. "The Chicago players, collectively are a smart crew, and with Charlie pitching championship ball since the season started, and with some of the other twisters working in championship form, I do not see where New York or Cleveland will be able to beat Kiki Gleason to the tag."

Mack said he looked forward to seeing the New York Giants battle the White Sox for the world's championship this fall.

Smiths, Millers, Joneses, in Major Leagues

The names of Smith, Miller and Jones are quite prominent on the roster of the various major league clubs. A glance over the Braves shows Elmer Smith with the Robins, Sherrill Smith with the Robins, Jack with the Cardinals, George with the Giants, Earl with the Browns, Jimmy with the Reds, and J. Carlisle with the Braves. Jack Miller is with the Cardinals, Otto with the Robins, Elmer with the Yankees, and Frank is with the Pirates. The Jones family is represented by Betty of the Tigers, Carlisle of the Red Sox, John Carl of the Giants and Johnny of the Yankees.

Giants Regain Lead

NEW YORK, July 15—New York regained the lead in the National League here yesterday defeating Pittsburgh in the third game of the series 5 to 4. The Giants won in the third inning, knocking Miller out of the box. Four runs were scored on four hits including a triple by Chase, a base on balls and an error by Miller. Causey and Winters were also easy for Pittsburgh but Duhon held the visiting batters in check. Only one Giant reached base on Carlson who succeeded Miller in the third inning.

SCOTCH COUNTESS VISITS AMERICA

The Countess of Lindsay with her husband, Lord Lindsay, has just arrived in New York. Fortunately for Lord Lindsay, who was very poor before his marriage, his wife brought him a large fortune. Her father, the late John Shaw of Welburn Hall, York, was one of the wealthiest mine owners of the Midlands and of the north of England.

When Boston was in trouble, in 1774, on the last of June, the Boston port bill went into operation. A soon the harbor was closed against all vessels and business was suspended. In a 20 days' notice, the citizens of Boston were deprived of their means of earning a living. Indignation ran high throughout the colonies, and the people were ruled in other cities for their relief, and the people of Marblehead offered the Boston merchants the use of their wharves.

Full Glory of Cherry Blossoms.
 Blooming of the cherry trees in Japan occurred earlier this year than usual, owing to the exceptionally warm weather of the early months. The blossoms were out in great profusion on Sunday, March 30. The high sakura trees in Ueno park were in full bloom; the Yoshino park, or common variety, came out in full flower on April 3, the anniversary of the first emperor of Japan. Everybody in Japan is enjoying the arborecence of springtime.

Yanks Make New Record

The Yankees established what is believed to be a major league record in the seventh inning of a recent game when they made three home runs. The first man saw his fly, the left field stands, and then Baker, right field, the right field stands, and finally, not to be outdone, tracked down into left field stands, scoring Duff Lewis, who was on second base at the time.

In the old days slingers have made four home runs in a game, but no records show that three were made in the same inning.

ODD TRIPLE PLAY

The triple play in a recent Cleveland-St. Louis game was rather odd and deserves detailing. In the fourth inning, with the bases full, Gerber hit a fly to Wood, on which Slater scored from third. Wood's throw was intercepted by Chapman, who found Jacobson and Sloan wandering off base, and both runners were retired, what should have been one out thus resulting in three.

HOW EUROPE REJOICED WHEN PEACE TREATY WAS SIGNED

Great crowds in Trafalgar Square, London, celebrating signing of peace treaty.

America took the signing of the peace treaty by the Germans very calmly—as a matter of fact, so to speak. But Europeans went almost as wild with joy as they did the day the armistice was signed.

The picture shows how London folk turned out in a riotous crowd to celebrate the event.

Wants Data Bearing On Treaty Preparation "Drys" In Full Control, Block All Efforts Of The "Wets"

SEN. LODGE ALSO ASKS WILSON TO FURNISH COPY OF GERMAN-JAP TREATY

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 15.—Issues of the peace treaty fight were expected to result in further committee action and several hours of debate in the senate chamber today.

The foreign relations committee, which yesterday reported three resolutions asking the president for information about the Versailles negotiations, had before it today a proposal by Senator Johnson, Republican, California, to request all available data bearing on the preparation of the treaty and particularly all proposed drafts of the League of Nations.

Another proposal considered certain to arouse considerable discussion in the meeting, was a motion by Senator Hitchcock, Nebraska, ranking Democratic member, that all future committee sessions be open to the public.

It was thought possible that an attempt might also be made to secure some action on the question of consulting President Wilson in committee consideration of the treaty.

In the senate, Chairman Lodge, of the committee, was prepared to call up for passage his resolution, reported yesterday, asking the president for a copy of an alleged secret treaty negotiated in 1918 between Japan and Germany. Senators Norris, Republican, Nebraska, and Underwood, Democrat, Alabama, also had announced that they probably would speak at length during the day on other features of the treaty fight.

Senator Lodge's resolution, as amended and reported from the foreign relations committee follows: "Resolved, that the president be requested, if not incompatible with public interest, to send to the senate a copy of any treaty purporting to have been projected between Germany and Japan, referred to in the press dispatch heretofore annexed, together with any information in regard to it, which may be in possession of the state department or any further information concerning any negotiation between Japan and Germany during the progress of the war."

The press dispatch was dated June 20 at Budapest and outlined the alleged treaty as containing a guarantee that Japan would safeguard indirectly Germany's interests at the Versailles peace conference.

ELECTRIC RAILWAYS MUST HAVE RELIEF, SAYS HIGH OFFICIAL

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Under war exigencies without any sort of relief, the electric railways cannot continue to perform the functions expected of them, John H. Pardee, president of the American Electric Association, today told the federal electric railways commission. The commission was appointed by President Wilson to investigate the situation confronting local transportation interests throughout the country.

"It is no longer a question of what return shall be allowed to the owners of the railways," Mr. Pardee said. "It is a question as to what service, if any, shall be rendered to the public." "Assuming it was not the purpose of the railways' representatives to 'make a case' before the commission, Mr. Pardee said they appeared to give the facts in the situation in the hope a solution might be found satisfactory to the public, employees and owners alike, interested as they all were in maintaining good service at reasonable cost."

Outstanding phases of the situation demanding attention, he continued, are the "absolutely uneconomic and unsatisfactory" basis upon which the relations between the public and the electric railways have rested since the inauguration of the enterprise and the placing of many additional burdens.

War-Time Prohibition Will Remain In Effect Solar-Plexus For 23-4 Beer

WASHINGTON, July 15.—With indications that there would be no let up in the bitter fight which several times yesterday reached such a stage that proceedings were conducted in confusion and disorder, resumption of the prohibition enforcement measure debate was expected to be the only business in the house today. Opponents of prohibition, assisted in some instances by members of the "dry" forces, who have expressed belief that some features of legislation proposed are too drastic, were expected to continue their fight for moderation.

Every attempt so far to have the measure as reported from committee amended has met with defeat except in two instances, which had no important bearing. Amendments voted down yesterday included that permitting the sale of 2 1/2 percent beer, another leaving to the courts instead of congress to decide what constitutes an intoxicating beverage, and still another permitting the manufacture of light wines, which was designed to protect California grape growers. Numerous amendments were ruled out under points of order, and a straight-out motion to repeal the war time act was defeated overwhelmingly.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Prohibition forces took full control in the house Monday, refused to permit a vote on a straight-out motion to repeal the war-time act, defeated overwhelmingly an amendment providing for the sale of two and three-quarters percent beer and stood solidly against all attempts on the general enforcement measure. Just as one "liberal" amendment was offered by opponents of prohibition, it was voted down without ceremony, always by a triple vote, for the minority, fighting every inch of ground, demanded a division after the ayes and nays were called, and then asked for tellers. Before the house got through with the first session of the three part bill there was more disorder on the floor than at any time this session.

The disturbance arose first during an attempt by Representative Blanton, Democrat, Texas, to speak a second time against the amendment which would have given a jury the right to define intoxication, and was increased during an address by Representative Galley, Democrat, Massachusetts, who declared members voting "dry" should print in the Congressional Record exactly how much liquor they had stored in their homes and offices.

Reber Makes Test
The feeling between the factions got so bitter at times that the usual courtesy of permitting a member to revise and extend his remarks was denied. Prohibition members objected when Representative Reber, Republican, Pennsylvania, who had made a strong plea for beer, wanted to add something to his limited allotment of time. Mr. Reber had intimated in his speech that some members were not altogether truthful as to their drinking habits, declaring that so far as 2 3/4 percent beer was concerned, he had taken two drinks of it and wanted to see if it would make him drunk.

There was a round of speech-making on this motion, an hour of it, with the drys assailing it as an entering wedge and the wets asserting that it would permit the very thing the "president," as commander-in-chief of the army, had said was best for the country for the next six months.

Gavel Gets Much Use
After 2 3/4 percent beer had been bowed over by a record vote of 151 to 90—and this was about the relative division on all amendments—the prohibitionists went after another amendment by Representative Igoe, Democrat, of Missouri, which would have stricken out all definition of intoxication, killing the proposal 228 to 83.

There was the utmost confusion at times, despite vigorous attacks with the gavel, and some of the prohibition leaders applauded every move in their favor. The galleries, filled largely with women and officers of anti-liquor organizations, broke into applause when the house passed the repeal of two and three-quarter percent beer.

Motion Thrown Out
When it seemed the majority was weary of voting down every proposal by the other side, points of order were raised and some motions designed to make the law less drastic were picked up by the nay of the wets, as members expressed it, and today thrown out. This happened to an amendment by Representative Fox, Democrat, California, in the interest of grape growers, who stood to lose $12,000,000 this year, he said. It provided for the manufacture of wine containing eleven percent alcohol by weight. A point of order against it was sustained by the chair.

There were many references to President Wilson during the debate, and several speakers said that action of his message recommending repeal of the war-time law so far as it related to the manufacture and sale

Despite the fact that Pitcher "Foss" Spencer, star batter for the Selbys, lost the game to the Solvays, the Solvays to one lone bludge at the Berenice street yard, last evening, his brain lost by the count of 5 to 0, due entirely to the work of Mr. Spencer who was as wild as a March hare and who had no one to blame for the defeat but himself.

"Foss" is big of heart and big of brain and is not offering any alibi and gladly taking all the blame on his own shoulders. Usually as clever as a four footed animal, he slipped a cog in the second frame and stripped all the gains to the fifth when the Solvays added four unnecessary runs.

On the other hand Manager "Doc" Baughman who pitched for the winners was almost as steady with his bat as Mr. Spencer and ten times as steady. He walked but one man and immediately saw to it that the rest of the team did not follow him. Baughman, who did not get beyond first base, Baughman, who almost perfect game and turned in his fourth victory of the season, having the distinction of being the only defeated hurler of the Industrial League. The victory of the Solvays placed that team at the head of the league and they are confident they will maintain their advantage at least this week, for they are to play a double header Saturday afternoon with the tail-enders, N. & W. and Dr. & W.

The game last night was a well played struggle, the Solvays making one misplay which cost nothing. The Selbys erred twice, Spencer dropping a looping fly and Riddleberger making a thrown ball. These errors costing a run each.

The crowd was of huge proportions, it being estimated that fully 1500 people were out. Over-anxiety cost the Selbys a run in the opening inning, due to Stewart being caught on the delayed steal. He was on first with one out, due to his clipping single. Manager Brennan stepped to the plate and flashed the hit and run sign. Stewart was baffled by Baughman and caught off the initial sock and sacrificed at second by a perfect throw by Benton. Manager Brennan followed with a double to left that happened through Meyers and on which Stewart could have tallied. After this, Baughman pulled the breaks and but three more men saw first and but one got as far as third. The Solvays won the game in the second when they scored a run without the aid of a single. Benton walked and was sacrificed to second by Pollins. Spencer dropped Frizzell's popping, Benton taking third after the misplay. On the double steal, William Bonfield, Riddleberger's pet batter, Benton smiling home. The bats were let down for the Solvays in the fifth. Spencer walked both Meyers and James and Ward was hit on the south-eastern port of his hemisphere. Valentin walked, feeling in Meyers. Baughman led to Stewart, a fine catch. Cooper then made the only hit registered against Spencer, a single to left, sending in James and Ward, while Valentin came home when Riddleberger dropped William's good box on Benton's roller. William then made a great catch of Rolins.

Can You Do It? This sentence, President Elliot of Harvard University is said to have given to Doctor Lowell, his successor as head of the university, stipulating that the words all be spelled correctly: "It is agreeable to view the unparalleled embarrassment of a horseless rider or peddler sitting on a cemetery wall, gauging the asymmetry of a skillfully peeled potato."

Law of Falling Bodies. Since a body falls to the ground in consequence of the earth's attraction on each of its molecules, it follows that, everything else being the same, all bodies, great and small, light and heavy, ought to fall with equal rapidity. The fact that a stone falls more rapidly than a feather is due solely to the unequal resistance opposed by the air to the descent of these bodies. In a vacuum all bodies fall with equal rapidity.

When Attresses Were Unknown. In ancient times actresses were unknown. The people of Elizabethan times were perfectly content to stand for a young male Juliet. Around about 1660, though, Charles II of England began encouraging women to appear on the English stage, and since then actresses have been appearing all over the world with varying degrees of success.

Full Glory of Cherry Blossoms. Blooming of the cherry trees in Japan occurred earlier this year than usual, owing to the exceptionally warm weather of the early months. Everybody in Japan is enjoying the arboreousness of springtime.

When Boston Was in Trouble. In 1774, on the 1st of June, the tea port bill went into operation. A soon the harbor was closed against all vessels and business was suspended. In a 20 days' notice the citizens of Boston were deprived of their means of gaining a living—indignation rose high throughout the colonies, committees were raised in other cities for their relief, and the people of Boston, head offered the Boston merchants the use of their wharves.

Yanks Make New Record

The Yankees established what is believed to be a major league record in the seventh inning of a recent game, when they made three home runs, Peck, the first man up, hit into the left field stands, and then Baver hit into the right field stands. Parg Balle, not to be outdone, cracked one into left field stands, scoring Daily Lewis, who was on second base at the time.

In the old days sluggers have made four home runs in a game, but no records show that three were made in the same inning.

ODD TRIPLE PLAY

The triple play in a recent Cleveland St. Louis game was rather odd and deserves detailing. In the fourth inning, with the bases full, Geber hit a fly to Wood, on which Stiller scored from third. Wood's throw was intercepted by Chapman, who found Jacobson and Stiller wandering off base, and both runners were retired, what should have been one out thus resulting in three.

Unfurled Flag In Honor Of Excelsiors Victories

John E. Williams, president of The Excelsior Shoe Co., is mighty proud of the ball team that represents his plant in the Industrial League and to show his pride in the ball players he went out yesterday and bought a huge flag which he hung to the breeze from the top of a flagstaff on the roof of the big shoe plant, in honor of the players and a tribute to their splendid work on the diamond.

Seldom has Mr. Williams been happier than he was last Saturday when his team went out and copped two games by beating the two leaders, the Solvays and Steel Plant, and which enabled them to climb into a tie for first place.

Incidentally, Mr. Williams handed out a five dollar bill immediately after the double victory which he turned over to the players telling them to go down town and drink all the sodas and coca colas they possibly could.

"Babe" Adams Trying Comeback

Charles H. ("Babe") Adams, hero of the 1909 world series, will try to come back with the Pittsburgh Pirates this year. Adams is thirty-five years old and a real veteran as pitchers go.

It was in 1916 that Adams took the tologram with the Pirates and was labeled as through by the scribes. His pitching for that year was more or less of a joke, for he won but two games and succeeded in losing nine more before Barney Dreyfus made up his mind to let his veteran star go.

In 1917 Adams drifted into the Western League, signed up with Jack Holland at Hutchinson and starred a comeback that surprised everybody. He won 20 games of ball for the Hutchinson team and lost 12, and he was rated as one of the hardest working pitchers in the league, which has always been noted as a league that harbors many a hard-driving youngster, and many a crafty old timer who is on his way back.

Adams' record with the Hutchinson club won him a tie with John Canzani of Kansas City last season and during the abbreviated pennant race in which the Blues won the pennant. Adams captured 14 games of ball and lost but three for the Kansas City club.

This feat won him his chance to try a real comeback with the Pirates this year and his boosters are predicting that he will make good.

Adams' comeback was his name in baseball's hall of fame back in 1909 when he played the role of hero of the world's series between Pittsburgh and Detroit. He pitched the first game for the Pirates against George Mullin and won it by a count of 4-1. Then, after Bill Donovan had beaten Willis and Mullin had trimmed Leftfield, while Maddox sandwiched a victory over Summers in between these two games, Adams came back in the mound with the count of two all and Pittsburgh made eight runs for him, while he held Detroit to four runs for Detroit back in the sixth. Adams came back in the sixth. Adams came back in the sixth. Adams came back in the sixth.

THE SHANTUNG PROBLEM

COMING down street Monday we met a citizen who, despite the intense heat wanted to discuss the League of Nations. Hitherto we had been in harmony with his views, namely that we doubted that the League would work out in actual practice, but supposed it would do up to him to try it as it offered about the only hope of peace, for at least a few years, there was in evidence at this time. But Monday our friend was brought up. "Think of the infamy of Shantung!" he exclaimed. "Yes," we replied, "but what of Shantung?" "Then he shouted, 'Why, they're destroying the integrity of China, and giving part of her empire to Japan,'" repeating the flippant phrases that have been emanating from the lips of Borch and other radicals in congress.

We asked our friend if he had made a study of Shantung, and he admitted he had not. We suggested to him that he get the July "World's Work," and read therein an article by Richard Washburn Child, who has been in Shantung. He did so and later phoned us that Shantung did not seem nearly so big a crime as it had at first, and he proposed to go further into the subject before coming to a definite conclusion.

In his exhaustive article, Mr. Child points out that China is practically in a state of chaos, her condition being similar to that of Mexico and safety of life, liberty and property is non-existent. The trouble of China, Mr. Child says, "have been the utter lack of functioning government, complete failure of civil institutions to avert the growth of bandit soldiery used by any local tyrant who can hire them to contend in ever multiplying revolutions, and constant corruption on the one hand and on the other the fear of foreign tyranny. China's troubles have been two—exploitation from within and exploitation from without, and of the two, any one who has penetrated China will have to say that the first is infinitely worse than the second."

Mr. Child then points out that since Japan has taken over the German concessions in Shantung province, she has brought order and prosperity. She has invested $100,000,000 and her citizens have invested $300,000,000 in building water works, extending telephones and telegraph systems, improving railroads and the like. So far as being angered at what Japan has been doing, Chinese citizens have looked on with approving eyes and in vast numbers have sought the safety and security to life and property that is insured under Japanese rule. Since Japan has assumed control of Shantung, the population has increased sixty fold, mostly through immigration from other sections of China.

Mr. Child feels that when China is reorganized and a stable government is established, Japan, whether she wants to or not, will hand Shantung back. It is necessary for her to have the good will of China that she may develop her commerce and buy the articles she needs and she is wise enough to know that she cannot have this good will if she grabs Chinese territory. Mr. Child makes these pertinent observations, in concluding:

"Japan must not only help to build up the good will in the China market, but she must also face the difficulty of doing it while insisting to the best of her ability that China shall build herself up under an honest governmental system. She must play the role of a friend, obliged at times to be firm. As a matter of self defense she must keep other foreign powers from obtaining more military and naval bases and fortifications and strongholds in China, because these are a real menace to Japan."

"Japan will make mistakes on the road. We have made them in Mexico. Japan has made them in China. China is a much more difficult problem to Japan than Mexico is to us. China is quite as violent and corrupt and rulerless as Mexico, but an infinitely more vital problem to Japan than Mexico is to North America. But there is no reason to disbelieve that Japan wishes an upbuilt China as a market rather than as a possession. Pay no attention to what the intriguing politicians of any country may say. A higher authority than they speak, it is the authority of the policy which nature and the extraordinary evolution of a nation have laid down for Japan."

"This evolution is driving any militaristic group in Japan from power. Looking deeply into Japanese internal affairs it is one of the causes for the recent extension of the Japanese franchises in the election of representatives. It accounts for the change in policy in Korea. It accounts for the Japanese plan to return to China, when there is a responsible government there, the Japanese Boxer Indemnity."

"There are those who do not like the Japanese, but few of them have ever lived in Japan. Few civilizations have equalled Japan in unity, the sense of race loyalty and race pride, the willingness to sacrifice for good citizenship, or the skill in creating a democracy without displacing an imperial ruler who is in truth not a ruler, but a symbol of Japanese unity of blood and purpose. Few civilizations have equal honor and accumulated tradition. Few have made art and high thinking so thoroughly permeate all life—high and low. Few have made so late an entry into commercial and industrial life, and therefore, few have had Japan's embarrassment in learning the ethics and morals of commerce. Few underneath their skins are quite as timid and self-conscious as the Japanese."

"If America has a sincere interest in the welfare of the peoples of the Far East, it will be wise to understand Great Britain's policy there, and to judge it, and if necessary argue it from the basis of fundamental facts of geography, economic laws and the comparative fitness of people to govern themselves or guide others. Still more important it will be to understand Japan, weighing her not by a petty yarn spun in an afternoon paper, but by her broad records and by the facts upon which Japan's policies must be founded whether Japan likes it or not, and whether we like it or not."

"For unless we are ready to maintain the force to control Asia, and to invest the money to rehabilitate Asia, the best way to work our will there, even in restoring China, is by helping Japan to take and administer her natural responsibility in leadership, for which, fortunately, she has the latent strength of national stability and virtue, standing up conspicuously in the midst of a wide world of slow rot and fast decay."

We are sorry that it is not possible to reproduce all of Mr. Child's able article, but readers will find themselves well repaid if they buy or borrow a copy of the magazine containing it, and read it carefully. They will get a better view and a better understanding of what Japan confronts in the Chinese problem and also what she is trying to do.

THE SERVICE DIVIDEND

WHILE there have been disturbances at times, in the main Portsmouth shoe workers have fared as well as those engaged in similar industries in other cities. Of recent years there has been a growing tendency on the part of both employer and employee to get closer together, and with better acquaintanceship there has come a better understanding. There has been a steady increase in wages the past few years, and the latest program set out by the manufacturers, the service dividend, as explained in Saturday's Times, is an example of the tendency of the times towards employees sharing more and more in the profits of business. The service dividend has been put into effect with an earnest desire for it to work out satisfactorily, and there is no reason why it should not be a success. It gives the man who sticks to his job assurance of appreciation of his work by increased wages in proportion to his length of service. As it will affect 70 per cent of those now employed, the addition to the weekly payroll will run into many thousands of dollars.

THE WISHING PLANE

As soon as darkness came, Jack and the guards from the castle started for the ruins at the top of the mountain.

You remember Jack had seen strange men using a secret passageway there. When the party reached the tunnel-mouth castle, the king said to Jack: "You take the lead and show us just where you stood behind the old rusty suit of armor when you saw the secret door."

The king cautioned all of the men to be quiet and have their guns ready to shoot when Jack led them to his hiding place. It was awfully dark in the cellar. Jack had to go slow to avoid getting lost. The guards did not dare use lanterns for, of course, that would give them away to the robbers if they were about.

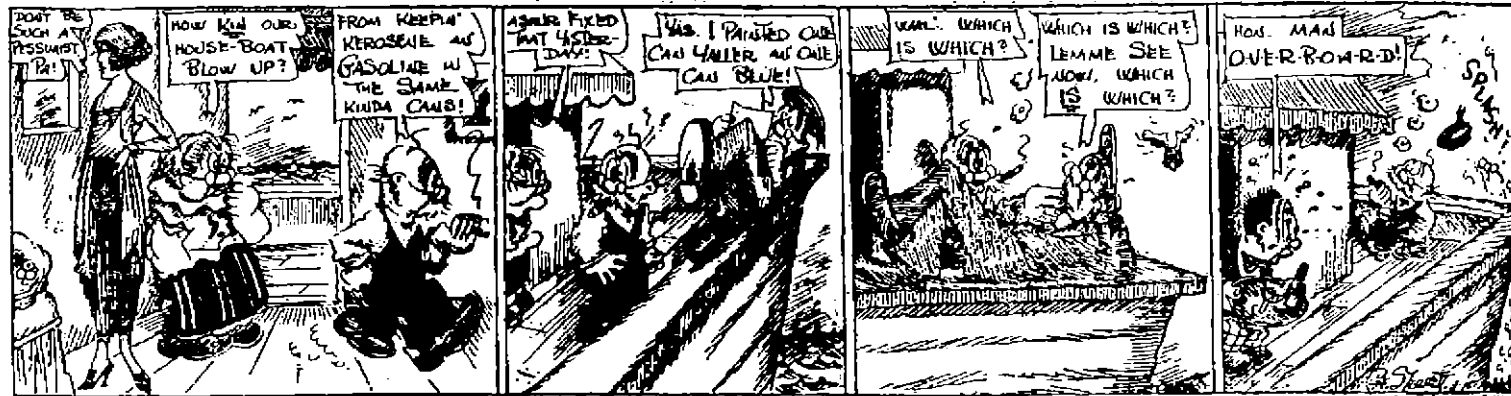

Jack's heart fairly leaped beating. Pretty soon he and the king could see a light from a lantern at the further end of the cellar. Then by the light of the lantern they could make out three men coming towards the hidden door. When they reached it, one of the men found what the king and Jack had failed to discover—the hidden spring and the door swung open.

As it opened up, the king called to his men, and they rushed in on the robbers. In an instant the three men who had sought to enter the door were prisoners. The king had seen to it that the door did not swing shut during the brief scuffle. The three prisoners were securely bound and two men were left to guard them. The king, Jack and the rest of the guards entered the passageway, determined to find out where it led.

Finally Jack found the old rusty suit of armor behind which he had hidden during the game of hide and seek. He showed them as near as he could where the robbers had come from to open the secret door, where it was, and just how it had swung open.

The king stationed the guards in hiding places near the scene and he and Jack tried to find the hidden spring which one of the robbers had pressed to open the door. They

GEN. TASKER H. BLISS
In recent debates in the senate the statement has been made that Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, one of America's representatives at the peace conference, vigorously opposed granting of Shantung to the Japanese but was overruled by President Wilson. The facts in the case will no doubt be made clear soon.

As America's representative at the conference, Gen. Bliss has been a familiar figure to the statesmen and voters of the allies. Before going to Europe he had been successively assistant chief and chief of the American special staff in Washington. He is of course a professional soldier. But, as his colleagues at Versailles have discovered, he is an experienced diplomatist and administrator as well. After the Spanish war he took a leading part in the reconstruction of Cuba, under the American military authorities. More recently he was military adviser to the American commissioners at a conference with representatives of Mexico, called to consider the relations between the United States and that unfortunate republic.

Today In History
Anniversary of Birth of St. Stephen
St. Stephen was a Bishop
Of plenty and worth:
Though, it is said, a cheerful glass
Of added to his worth.

His tomb was poor and lowly,
Yet there, so legends tell,
Were miracles of healing—
Lame, halt and blind made well.

Tradition says if Stephen's Day
Show sunshine or show rain,
Then forty days of sun or shower
Must follow in its train.

But careful observations
Recording dry and wet,
All go to prove the adage old
Has never come true yet!

He Wanted Company
The teacher was instructing his class in a very interesting course of experiments, and nothing came of the pupils' not paying proper attention, he said:

"Now, you know I cannot attend to you and my experiments at the same time. If anything goes wrong, the whole laboratory, and we with it, will be blown into the air. Come a little closer boys, so that you may follow me better."

Her Foot Slipped
At a recent gathering at the Lamb's Club, George M. Colman told the following story: "When I was a youngster our town was thrown into a frenzy of excitement through the appearance of a chap known as Jack the Ripper. He used to jump out of dark places, grab the girls, kiss them and run away. A friend of mine and a girl were discussing the matter, he declaring that a man could kiss a girl whether she liked it or not, and she maintaining that it couldn't be done. Finally they decided that the only way to prove their contentions was to try it. They did, and he ran after a brief struggle and kissed the girl ardently for several minutes. Then he released her. 'Oh, well,' said the girl, 'you really didn't win fair. My foot slipped. Let's try it again.'—Buffalo Commercial.

THERE IS ALWAYS A FAULTFINDER!

NEW-YORK-DAY-BY-DAY

NEW YORK, July 15.—Broadway has a new species of youth-banisher. The Automat Workers are the official name for them. They are that queer brood of women who sink around the dark shadows of the great buildings in the Tenderloin at night—begging a nickel here and a penny there.

They are heavy, unkempt and dress in that peculiar assortment of unrelated and unmatched motley which seems always the uniform of their type. Youth has always left them alone, though they are young in years. Their tragedies are always sorrowful and long-drawn. Whiskey, Opium, Heroin, Cocaine.

"They used to be found crawling over a glass of beer in the back rooms of saloons at night after begging the price. The coupling of prohibition drove them into the Automats where they seek coffee in lieu of booze. Their presence is intolerable."

In the Automats there are hot coffee and cold coffee. You put your nickel in the slot, push a button and the coffee is filled into your cup. The Automat Workers stand in line and get a cup. Men and women push their cups under the spouts and snatch them away, each time leaving a tiny dribble of coffee to trickle into the drain.

The Automat Workers slip their cups under the spout when the regular customers have left their cups away. In this way they catch a trickle of coffee. Only a few drops at a time but with patience and three spouts going they are able eventually to secure a full cup of coffee—not hot, to be sure but still it is coffee.

Now and then some generous soul slips into the breach with a nickel and the cup is filled. It is a wearisome game for they must not only watch the coffee spouts but also the customers. Around midnight when the nerves are frayed and anything with a kick is welcomed—the Automat Workers may be found in every Nickle-in-the-Slot restaurant.

It is quite astounding the number of ill-dressed men who walk around New York unprotected. I have seen one for years. He carries a sample case and I am quite certain he is a salesman. He is distinguished looking and dresses with quiet dignity. He waits up for a street-crossing and simply waits for a few seconds. Some one darts out of the crowd and helps him across. In the same way he gets off the street cars, down into the subway trains and up elevator stairs. There are many others who tap their way around the crowded streets with every degree of safety.

Tut! Tut!
"Oh! he not hasty, friend," I cried.
"Think twice over all you utter."
"I'm bound to do so," he replied.
"Because I stut-tut-tutter!"
—Cartoon Magazine.

And dream forever in my baby's arms.

The pure tragedy of the hour in New York is the man at Bellevue who has been crying since the hour of midnight June 30. He admits he was cornered at that time and the idea of an arid nation smothered him with sorrow. He burst into tears. The next day his tear ducts were still flooded and at the hospital they say he may cry for another week. Nobody seemed to know that a crying jag could work such hardship. A Broadway in Times Square said he counted twenty men crying around midnight when the law went into effect.
